Transferring References

You can seamlessly transfer up to 500 references at a time from EndNote Online to EndNote Desktop (specify allow duplicates or not) or from Desktop to Web (all references in library or references in a group).

Cite While You Write (MS Word)

Download the Cite While You Write (CWYW) plug-in from the 'Downloads' button to insert references and format citations and bibliographies instantly while you write your essays in Word.

Cite While You Write™

Use the EndNote plug-in to insert references, and format citations and bibliographies automatically while you write your papers in Word. This plug-in also allows you to save online references to your library in Internet Explorer for Windows.

U.S. Patent 8,082,241

See Installation Instructions and System Requirements.

Download Windows MSI for mass program installation
Download Macintosh

Once the plug-in is downloaded, a toolbar is added to Word to give easy access to the features in EndNote.

How to Insert Citations

1. In your Word document, place the cursor exactly where you want to insert the citation.
2. Click the 'Find Citation' button on the toolbar and search for the reference you want to insert.
3. Highlight the reference and click "Insert"

Changing the Bibliographic Style

In MS Word, click the arrow beside "bibliography" on the EndNote Online toolbar and choose "Output style" i.e. GMIT HARVARD.

From here you can download installers for the Cite While You Write plug-in for Microsoft Word & EndNote Online toolbars for Internet Explorer, Google Chrome & Microsoft Edge for your personal computers and devices.

Collect References (5 options)

The easiest way to get references into your library is via the GMIT Library's Search + Find (see overleaf). Otherwise:

1. Manually Add References

Click "New Reference" under the "Collect" tab, select the reference type (e.g. book, journal), enter the bibliographic information into the appropriate fields.

2. Export References

Many databases support a Direct Export feature for electronically importing records into your EndNote Online Library.

When searching resources such as Web of Science, ScienceDirect, Business Source Complete & Academic Search Complete, you can save search results directly to your EndNote Online library by clicking the EndNote option after ticking the references you want to include.

3. Import References

You can add references to your library by importing references from a text file. You must save your search results as a text file first.

Some databases require saving to a text file before importing such as Dictionary of Irish Biography.

Steps:

1. Search your database and save desired citations as plain text ".txt" files.
2. In EndNote Online, click on "Collect" and "Import References".

3. Click on "Browse" to select the text file you wish to import.

4. Choose "Filter" by selecting the database or vendor name from which you obtained the citations (drop down menu).

If the name of the database or vendor you need is not in the drop-down menu, choose 'RefMan' RIS'.

5. Click on "Import".

4. Online Search

To search, click the "Collect" tab, then click "Online Search". You can perform searches of the GMIT library catalogue, ISI Web of Science, PubMed and many other library catalogues and databases directly through EndNote Online. Tick the references you require and add to unfiled group (located above list of results).

5. Capture

References can be "captured" by using the "capture" function in your browser's toolbar. This function only works for some databases and webpages (e.g. Irish Times Online).

When you find a reference you want to import, click "Capture" from your browser's bookmark bar, type in any additional information required and then click "Save" to add to EndNote Online.
